托福口语 Question 1 & 2 【事件题】回答范例

范例 1

Well, in my opinion, my 20th birthday, my first surprising party by my friends, surprised me most, and I have 2 main reasons for that.

First of all, I was amazed by the definition of true friendship as some of my old friends from South Africa traveling 20 hours by air coming to celebrate my birthday, who attacked me dramatically with a birthday cake.

Another reason that was surprising to me was that they took a photo of me which made him whole occasion unforgettable. Finally, they sang a birthday song for me according to western tradition, which is totally beyond my expectation.

范例 2

I got the feeling that just as people in western countries do, we Chinese hold Spring Festival to celebrate our lunar new year, which is the biggest event for each family as well as the whole nation.

First, on the eve, there usually is a big family reunion, and all the families from all over China will be sitting around the same table, feasting, toasting and chitchatting. At 12 sharp, we set off fireworks and let out crackers to celebrate the coming of Chinese new years.

After that, we visit our friends and relatives to send our best wishes. The olds will send money into red envelopes and hand out to the kids to symbolize their growing up one year older peacefully.

As far as I'm concerned, the most important decision I have ever made is choosing mathematical finance as my major.

That's a relatively new subject in China, and many people here even don't know what it is about. Actually, I didn't have much knowledge of it either when I made the decision. I finally chose it just because I found math very interesting and kind of felt that I would like to do something related to economics in the future.

However, after four years' study, now I find I love it very much. Moreover, I have made up my mind to go to USA for further study. I believe I can make some academic achievement in this area.

范例 4

According to my understanding, the most efficient traffic in my country China should be buses.

Almost every city has well developed bus system, which means each bus route covers many streets and each street can be covered by many bus routes. So it's very convenient to go to a place by bus, and normally you need transfer at most for one time.

Moreover, bus has some other advantages over other traffics. First, the bus can run on some streets which are forbidden for other traffics like taxi. Second, you needn't worry about parking places, which may be the most boring problem for those who prefer private cars.

Last year when I was shopping down town, my purse got stolen. I lost all my money and the cell phone. I don't know anybody there, for a while I didn't know what to do.

Fortunately I saw a police officer standing on the other side of the street, so I went up and asked whether I could borrow his cell phone. I was only hoping that he could help me contact someone I know. However, what he offered was even better; he called for a policeman patrol car to send me home. It may not be a big deal for the policeman, but I'm so grateful for the help he gave me when I need it most.
